SIGNAL FOR A GENERAL OUTBREAK

Affair is Believed to Be Part of the Plan of an Unruly Native Potentate and is Considered Serious.

BOMBAY, June 11 .- A dispatch from Sim-In, the residence of the Indian government officials during the heated periods of the year, announces serious trouble on the northern frontier and the massacre of a number of British officers and native soldiers in the government employ. From the particulars obtainable at present it seems that two guns belonging to a Bombay mounted battery, and escorted by 300 men belonging to the First regiment of Sikhan and the First Punjab infantry, were treacherously attacked in the Terocha valley by a large force of bostile natives. The first report said that Colonel Bunny, two officers and twenty-five privates had been killed, and that three officers and twenty-five men had been wounded. In addition, a number of mules and horses are reported killed.

Indications are that the affair is more than a mere conflict with warlike natives, and that the notorious mullah of Powindan is at the bottom of the trouble. The latest advices are that a political officer, Mr. Mc-Gee, was visiting Shirani with an escort of troops when he was attacked at Maiza by vastly superior forces. The British troops were compelled to retreat, and were followed for several miles by overwhelming numbers of the enemy. The fighting was desperate. All the British officers were se-verely wounded. Captain Browne of the First Sikhas and Lieutenant Crookshank of the Royal artillery were killed, and Sur-geon Higginson, Lieutenant Higginson of the First Sikhas and U.eutenant Scaton-Browne of the Punjab infantry were wounded. The second dispatch does not mention the death of Colonel Bunny, but from the fact that it says that Colonel Gray from Miranshah has taken over the com-mand of the British forces engaged, it is inferred that Colonel Bunny is also among Terocha valley lies north of Gumal and on the road to Chuseni and Waziristan. It has been controlled by the British since the delimitation of the Hindoo-Afghan frontier but the tribes there have always been turbulent, and fear is felt lest the other tribes rise against the British.

The muliah of Powindah is well known to the British Indian authorities. He is a notorious fanatical priest, and has always been bostile to British Influence Owing to an attempt which the mullah recently made to stir up a rebellion, he was expelled from British territory. This caused him to be deserted by his own people, and he has since lived in Afghanistan and is understood have been actively plotting against the itish. He took part in the attack upon the British camp at Wane, in November

While Colonel A. H. Turner, the British commander, was engaged in 1894 in de-limitating the Hindoo-Afghan frontier, his camp at Wano was attacked on November of that year by a large force of Wazeir

The British lost about twenty private sol diers and twenty camp followers killed be fore the Wazeiris were repulsed. The lat ter left over 250 dead on the field.

CALL FOR A SENATORIAL CAUCUS to Get Together on

Hawalian Question. WASHINGTON, June 11 .- It has been definitely decided to hold a republican caucus tomorrow at 10 o'clock to settle tariff differences.

There was a decidedly unsettled condition of affairs on the republican side of the senate today and it finally ended in a decision to and other tariff propositions. The repub-lican members of the finance committee the to agree upon something concerning Hawaii and avoid a caucus, but the differences of opinion prevented it. The internal revenue tobacco tax also is still unadjusted and the committee is not yet agreed, as there is a clash between the New England tobacco growers and those of other parts of the country on the dutiable rate on wrapper tobankruptcy laws or otherwise."

FIGHTING FOR DELAY

State is Forced to Contest for Every Point Sought to Be Made,

BARTLEY'S LAWYERS RAISE OBJECTIONS

Hold Back Introduction of Evidence by Arguing to the Court.

CASHIER WALLACE GOES UPON THE STAND

Details Contents of the Check Given in Fayment of Warrant.

MONEY WAS TAKEN OUT OF STATE FUNDS

All of the Writing in the Body of the Cheek in the Handwriting of the Ex-State Treasurer.

The fourth day of the trial of J. S. Bartley. the ex-state treasurer charged with embezzlement, opened yesterday with the prosecution still it troducing evidence. Scarcely a step was taken without technical objections being made by the attorneys for Bartley. In nearly ever; instance these objections were followed by arguments on both sides and the vidence was greatly delayed thereby. Heretofore the state has been unable to produce the check drawn by Bartley against state funds for the payment of the warrant after its return by the Chemical National bank of New York for collection. Evidence was introduced to show that this check was not in the possession of the state authorities and the defense was served . with a notice to produce it, but has not done so. It was therefore necessary for the prosecution to prove by other means the existence of the check and its contents. This was opposed by the defense, but the state succeeded n getting this evidence squarely before the lury, Cashier Wallace of the Omaha National bank testified positively regarding the check and recited its contents in every detail, the check having passed through his hands and the entries in the bank's books having been made by his directions.

The entire morning was spent in proving this check, the whole of Thursday having been spent in preliminary skirmishing lead-ing up to this proof.

MADE PAYABLE TO BARTLEY. LUTHERANS WIPE OUT A DEBT. As the case stands at this time, the state has proved that the warrant drawn against the general fund for the reimbursement of the sinking fund was made payable to Bartley personally, was registered by him and sold, through the Omaha National bank, to the Chemical National of New York, and the proceeds placed to the credit of Bartley's personal account in April, 1895, the warrant being paid January 2, 1897, with interest at 7 per cent, payment being made by a check against the general fund of the state, signed by Bartley as treasurer and drawn against tate funds in the Omaha National bank state funds in the Omaha National bank.

While no money passed in the payment of the warrant, the credit of the Chemical National was increased by the amount of the duced by a corresponding amount. The first witness yesterday was William Wallace. cashier of the Omaha Na tional bank. He was shown the warrant and said he had seen it before and in the bank. It had been paid by check. He said he had delivered the warrant either to J. H. Millard or to J. S. Bartley. The check given in payment for the warrant was delivered to the witness by either Millard or Bartley. After the check had passed through the bank, the witness gave it to Assistant Cashier Balch, since which time the witness had not seen it. He said the check was not in the possession of the bank. The witness was allowed to testify to the contents of the check. He said it was dated January 2, 1897, and was drawn to the order of J. H.

Millard, president, was for $201,884.05, drawn against the general fund, and signed, "J. S. Bartley, treasurer." The witness testified that this check was paid. He said he had examined the records and files of the bank for this check and had not been able to find it. The check was made out on the regular form of blank check kept in the bank for the use of patrons and the words, "Charge account general fund," appearing on the check, were written in the handwriting of J. S. Bartley. The witness produced one of the blank checks in use in the bank and testified that it was the same form used by Bartley in drawing the check referred to. He further testified that all the written parts of the check were in the handwriting of Bartley. The check was paid out of state funds on deposit in the Omaha National bank.

OF HIS OWN KNOWLEDGE. On cross-examination the defense atwitness was based on the books of the bank, but he testified that he knew of the transaction of his own knowledge. It was then attempted to show that no money had passed over the counter of the pank in the trans ction. The witness testified that the check was paid by transferring the amount called for by the check to the credit of the Chemical National bank of New York. This latter fact was brought out by the state on redirect, the defense making the most streauous objections to this going to the jury. The effort of the prescution to show that the credit of the state of Nebraska was reduced by a corresponding amount on the books of the bank was fought by the defense step by step, every effort being made to prevent these facts from being brought out. The witness was finally allowed to testify that the credit of the state was reduced by the amount of the check.

Attorney Wh-don attempted to corner the witness as to his means of knowledge that the credit of the state was reduced, and his answer put an end to any further at-tempts along that line. He said Bartley's check was given to him and he made an entry on a slip which he handed to one of the tellers to have the proper entry made on the books. This was the end of his cross-examination, and the witness was excused for the purpose of producing the slip he had referred to. He returned shortly with it, and it was introduced in evidence.
G. M. Bartlett, deputy treasurer under Bartley, was recalled and identified a stub in a check book kept in the treasurer's of-fice. He said he had filled out this stub under the direction of J. S. Bartley, who told him he had drawn a check on the Omaba National in payment of the warrant in evidence, and told the witness to make a slub of it so there would be a record. The check belonging to the stub was tern off by the witness, but was not filled out. The witness also identified the blank form of check in use in the treasurer's office, being an entirely different form from the one used by Bartley at the Omaha National, as testified to by Cashler Wallace. The stub-and blank check were offered in evidence, the entries on the stub showing that it was intended to appear as a stub of the check drawn by Bartley on the Omaha National payment of the amount and accumulated

TELEPHONE FOR THE CHECK. At the afternoon session E. E. Baich, as-sistant cashier of the Omaha National, wasrecalled to show that the checks drawn by Bartley on his personal account were re-turned to him in the regular course of business. He said the check with which Bartley paid the warrant in controversy was afterwards sent to Bartley in response to his re-quest made by telephone.

On cross examination Balch said it was not be who mailed the checks to Bartley. The stamps in the books of the bank showing that the checks had been returned were af-fixed before the checks were mailed. He was not positive that he personally placed the
